I was born and raised in Hawaii, the son of a legal immigrant and a native Hawaiian. In 1961, I left Hawaii to attend college in Santa Cruz, California where I began my career in Law Enforcement by joining the Santa Cruz Police Department. Returning home in 1968, I joined the Hawaii County Police Department and retired in 1994 as a Police Captain-District Commander.

My desire for an interactive, responsible government, focused on preserving the future of Hawaii for our children, prompted me to enter politics. I then served on the Hawaii County Council for six years. During that period of time, I was allowed to chair the committee on Public Works and later, the Committee on Planning. The slogan for my campaign, "Hoe Like," which means "working together toward a common goal," was and still is my emphasis. I believe that my demeanor should be a reflection of the people I represent. I also believe that development should be controlled, required to be sensitive to the environment, and contribute to the surrounding quality of life.

County Council members should represent the interests of their individual districts in doing what is best through cooperation and prioritization. It is a fact that special interest groups continually try to influence our lives and decisions. My loyalty is to the preservation of Hawaii for the future.

Sincerely,
Leningrad Elarionoff
